Ask if a two-eyed monkey has been used to fill a space on the plate and there is no part of a sequence, can we use an eye monkey to remove this chip on the board? Since a chip is not part of a sequence, it can be removed with an eye jack. This means that even the chips placed with a two-eyed jack can be removed. Question I want to wear a jack-eye, and 7 chips in a horizontally opposite team line, can I remove any of them? Yes, you can remove any chip on the board as long as it is no longer a sequence. Question three people playing use all cards and do not be sequence. When all the cards are used, crush them and turn them to keep playing unless you used all markers / peans. Sequence can be played with 2-12 players. If there are more than 3 players, players must be divided into teams. There may be only 3 teams, and each team must have the same number of players. Start the game by having each player cut the sequence cards. gets the lowest prices first (peaces are high). The dealer shrinks the cards and deals with all players. The number of cards each player receives depends on whether playing a 2-player/2-team game or a 3-player/3-team game, as well as how many players there are. For a 2-player/2-team game with 2 players, each player gets 7 cards, with 4 players each player gets 6 cards, with 6 players each player gets 5 cards, with 8 players each player gets 4 cards, and with 10 or 12 players each player gets 3 cards. For a 3-player/3-team game with 3 players, each player gets 6 cards, with 6 players each player gets 5 cards, with 9 players each player gets 4 cards, and with 12 players each player gets 3 cards. After the dealer deals everyone their cards, the player to their left goes first. On a player's turn, they start by choosing a card from their hand and playing it face-up in front of them in their own personal discard pile. Then, they place a marker chip of their color or their team's color on the matching card space on the board. Each card has two matching spaces on the board (except for Jacks), and players can place their marker on either one as long as it's not already taken. Two-eyed Jacks are wild and one-eyed Jacks are anti-wild. If a player plays a two-eyed jack, they can place a marker on any space on the board. If they play a one-eyed jack, they can remove an opponent's marker from any space, unless the marker is already part of a finished sequence. Players also have the option of playing a dead card in their hand and drawing a new card from the deck instead of playing a marker on the board. A dead card is a card that no longer has any available matching spaces on the board. Players finish their turn by drawing a new card from the deck. Play continues clockwise around the table until one player or team scores 2 sequences for a 2-player/2-team game or 1 sequence for a 3-player/3-team game. A sequence is a series of 5 chips in the same color going up, down, across, or diagonally on the board. Whichever player or team completes their sequences first wins the game!
